SOME GOOD PEACHES

Mrs. C. E. Baggerly, of near Elmwood, brought this office a sample of very fine peaches Saturday. These are among the very few peaches to be produced here, the late frost killing nearly all of the crop. The fruit was certainly delicious.

Word from Mrs. O. H. Calky, who is visiting in Illinois, says that she is enjoying the sights of the Windy City and the bracing breeze from Lake Michigan, at this time. Miss Frances entered school at Chicago this week.

SELLS RACE HORSE

H. P. Williams sold one of his very fine race horses, "Harry Williams", a five-year-old horse, to Asa Marcus, of near Liberal, the past week. The animal was sacrificed for $550.00. Mr. Williams says he is a fine one and worth far more money.

HOW ABOUT THOSE SAND BURS TOOK?

We hate to mention it, but if the editor of the Democrat, or the reportorial force of that office, don't get busy and remove that border of sand burs from in front of the walk at that shop, we shall have to "publish their name" in next week's issue of The Herald.

THE "SENATE OLIGARCHY"

(From Chicago Tribune)

Mr. Cox is fond of the expression "Senate oligarchy." It has a caustic and terrifying sound. Mr. Harding is a Senator. The Senate is controlled by Republicans. Something destructive will come of it. The Senate is elected directly by the people of the various states, and each senator is supposed to derive his authority from the people. He is supposed to represent them and be responsible to them.

Mr. Harding has said that he intends to consult the Senate in matters covered by the constitutional provisions affecting Senate duties. That causes Mr. Cox to view with alarm.

Mr. Cox got his nomination from a small group of distinguished Jeffersonians who are not elected by the people to any office, but who are powerful—George Brennan of Illinois, Charles Murphy of New York, Thomas Taggart of Indiana, etc. Mr. Brennan is an able citizen. They are all able citizens. They agreed on Cox and the Democratic party took him.

Mr. Cox, having taken his nomination from a small group, took his policies from Mr. Wilson. Mr. Wilson's conception of the Senate is one not founded in the Constitution. He believes that the Senate should be seldom seen and never heard. Mr. Wilson is the arch oligarch of the country, unrestricted by the Constitution, undeterred by protest and unmoved by opinion.

Mr. Cox evidently agrees with Mr. Wilson that the Senate is a body inconveniently interposed between the otherwise unrestrained will of the president and purposes he wishes to accomplish.

About the only thing the countries of Europe are unanimous on is that they all want free access to the American markets for the products of their cheap labor—but even that, with the products handled by the trusts and profiteers, would not be likely to help the American consumers, as the products would be marketed such as sugar has been marketed lately. It will pay to vote right this fall. Superior (Wis.) Telegram.

We venture, not on our own opinion solely, but on the expressed opinions of a great number who were present, that there was scarcely an argumentative statement in the speech of Franklin D. Roosevelt in Billings, Tuesday evening, that cannot be refuted by a plain statement of fact.—Billings (Mont.) Gazette.

ANOTHER TEACHER BADLY NEEDED

School opened Monday and, as usual, the grades were crowded. We are told that there are some seventy-five or eighty in the 7th and 8th grades. This is too many for any teacher to do justice to the pupils and yet funds do not seem to be available for hiring another teacher. It is a problem which must be met for the children are entitled to school privileges. They must have it and the school board want to give it to them but how can they do it with the school levy now at the limit and no funds available? It is a problem. Who can solve it?

"That's My Home"

THE planning and building of your home is of no interest whatever to your neighbor, but to you it is a very important task—an achievement that you will want to be able to print to with pride, and say—"that's MY home!"

Here is a home that will enable you to do that—a home of which any man could well be proud. It is of English type with five rooms, though from the outside it appears much larger.

Downstairs are three rooms—living room, dining room, and kitchen. Upstairs there are two large bedrooms, each with a roomy closet adjoining. The bath room is conveniently located, and as it is directly over the kitchen, the same plumbing is permitted for both rooms.

This is a Trowbridge & Ackerman home, being designed by those noted New York architects. And this is but one of 200 home designs from which you can make your selection.

Other equally beautiful homes of four different architectural types—Colonial, English, Western, and Southern, and ranging in size from three to eight rooms, are shown in portfolios.

You should have one of these portfolios to help you in the planning and selection of your new home. And if you wish we will obtain one for you.

Turn your home building dreams into realities and start action immediately on your new home.
